LEIPZIG (GRIMMA) LOGISTICS CENTRE

LEIPZIG ECONOMIC REGION

Due to its geographical location at the interface between Western and Eastern Europe, Central Germany is the optimal logistics location for European and global distribution. Global brands such as Porsche, BMW or Beiersdorf as well as global logistics companies such as DHL, Amazon, Deutsche Post or Schenker with large dispatch centers have settled around Germany's second largest cargo airport, Leipzig-Halle Airport.

Many other companies manage their logistics business for the whole of Central and Eastern Europe from Central Germany. The metropolitan region of Central Germany alone has an annual GDP of approximately € 255 billion, with an area of approximately 55,000 km² and about 8.4 million inhabitants.

The property is located within the northern commercial area of the city of Grimma, in the immediate vicinity of the BAB 14.

Located in the vicinity of the Leipzig metropolitan area and thus, together with Dresden and Chemnitz, in Saxony's most important economic triangle, the site offers good general conditions with regard to its location within Central Germany and in the direction of the CEE region.

With the quickly accessible connection to the BAB 9 or the BAB 38, there is an optimal connection to the other nationwide main traffic routes, such as the BAB 72 and the BAB 4. The surrounding area of the district of Leipzig or the economic area of North Saxony can be reached just as quickly via the adjacent B107.

The city of Grimma is integrated into the S-Bahn network of the Leipzig surrounding area, so that a quick accessibility of the city of Leipzig by public transport can be guaranteed. In addition, a bus connection is available directly at the industrial park.
