Marq Logistics Hamburg-South (Bispingen)

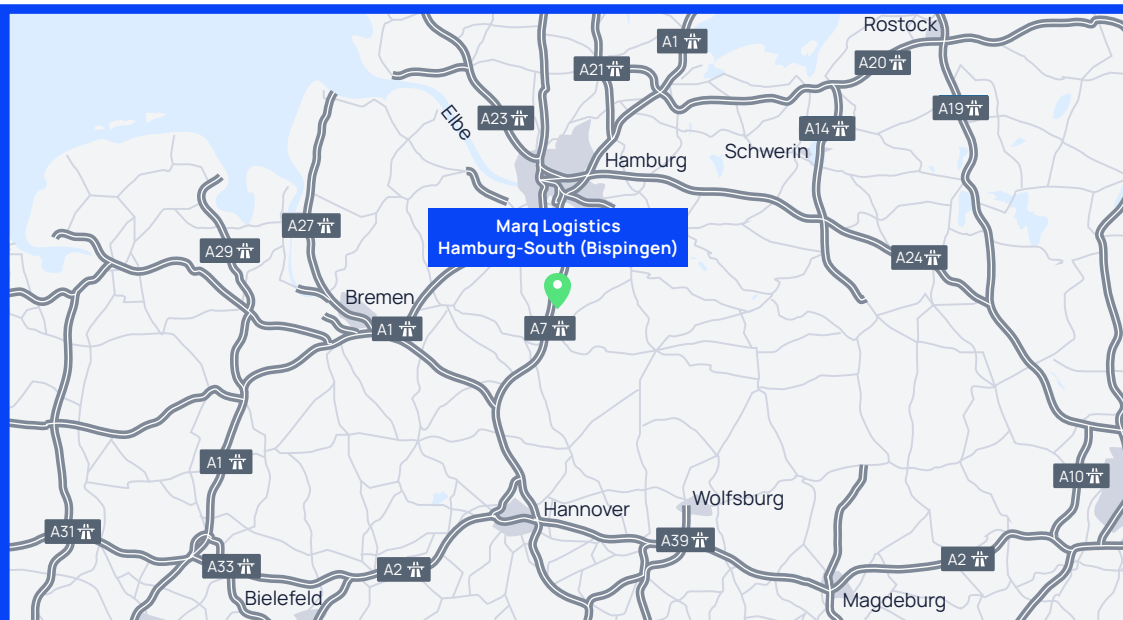

Unit 1

The Hamburg metropolitan region is one of Europe's leading economic and logistics hubs and is characterised by its international orientation and an efficient transport infrastructure. With the Port of Hamburg – Germany's largest general-purpose port and one of Europe's most important seaports – the region boasts a central foreign trade and logistics hub. This infrastructure is complemented by Hamburg International Airport and excellent connections to road, rail and inland waterways, creating ideal conditions for logistics, manufacturing and distribution companies.

The Hamburg-Süd Logistics Centre is situated in the municipality of Bispingen in the south of the Hamburg metropolitan region and lies directly on the A7 motorway, one of Germany's most important north-south transport corridors. This direct connection enables efficient access to the Port of Hamburg and the economic centres of Bremen, Hanover and Wolfsburg, whilst also ensuring rapid links to the Scandinavian and southern German markets. Furthermore, the site is connected to the local public transport network via bus route 154.

The Hamburg-Süd Logistics Centre offers modern and versatile logistics space for warehousing, transshipment and distribution processes. Its convenient transport links, excellent infrastructure and proximity to one of Europe's most important logistics hubs create the ideal conditions for an efficient supply chain and sustainable site development.
